

"Valiant Charge at the Angle"

Brigadier General Richard Brooke Garnett and his Brave Virginians of Pickett's Division at Gettysburg -- July 3, 1863

By Ron Lesser

Brigadier General Garnett, reaching the Angle, calls out to the 28th Virginia, "Faster men - faster! We're almost there." The Rebels approached the wall, their line in complete disarray. When they got to within 20 yards of the stone wall, the 69th Pennsylvania unleashed a devastating volley directly into their midst.

Staggered and shattered, the Confederates kept on coming.

General Garnett was struck and killed instantly. His body was never identified. General Garnett's black charger - Red Eye - amazingly survived the onslaught and was later seen galloping toward the Confederate lines.

Limited Edition Prints on 120# Archival Paper

Print size 27"w x 19.5"h, Image 23"x14"

S/N - Edition of 500 - $125

A/P - 25 - $175

Remarque Edition - 15 - $225

Private Edition - 100 - NFS

Giclee on Canvas

28w x 18h stretched

S/N - Edition of 100 - $325